

-2 - Arvil Howard Scott

& her siblings had a most delightful childhood: swimming in Provo River, hiking up to Wecker spring, father & mother taking them to Schneiter's or Luke's hot pots, or to the circus when it came to town, or riding horses - and many other fun make-your-own entertainment things.

Howard & Eunice finally built the nice brick home at 1229 W. 600 So in Provo, Utah. He continued to farm his Utah Lake tidal land. They had previously lived in a wooden grainery-like small building on the Lake-ground.

Later Arvil & Mary Ethel raised thousands of turkeys on their Charleston ranch, till the takeover by the Bureau of Reclamation for the Deer Creek Dam in 1936-7. He was then 46 yrs old.

The turkey brooder house was 120' x 40' in size, & when the Dam started, Leon Ritchie bought the lumber to make his chicken coops on road to Daniel's Canyon on east side of Highway 40.

Arvil, now dispossessed, built a home on 731 East Center Street in Provo and did mining in Midway's Snake Creek, and down around Kanosh.

Arvil finally died @ 79 yrs old on 23 Dec 1970 in Orem Utah.

Mary Ethel Widdison Scott died previously on 4th July 1961 @ 68 yrs of age in Provo.

Both are buried in the Provo City Cemetery south east of Provo proper.
